Agriculture Supports S. 3711 the Gulf of Mexico Energy Security Act

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

July 21, 2006 - Washington, DC – The 106 members of the Agriculture Energy Alliance (AEA) urge the Senate to pass S. 3711, the Gulf of Mexico Energy Security Act. AEA continues to be concerned with high natural gas prices and the negative effect these prices have on agriculture. Our immediate goal is to ensure that every effort is made to support passage of the Act.

AEA urges Congress to pass legislation quickly that will significantly improve natural gas supply in the United States. Throughout debate on energy policy the AEA has consistently encouraged Congress to pass legislation that would allow expanded natural gas production in the Outer Continental Shelf.

The AEA represents a broad-based coalition of farm organizations and agribusinesses that face a crisis because of government policies that have created demand for natural gas while at the same time restricting access to supply sources. The farm sector depends on significant amounts of natural gas for food processing, irrigation, crop drying, heating farm buildings and homes, and production of crop protection chemicals and nitrogen fertilizers.

Additional supply of American energy resources is important to maintaining a competitive agricultural sector. AEA supports S. 3711, the Gulf of Mexico Energy Security Act, that will provide an enhanced role for development of offshore energy resources leading to a more diverse portfolio and additional supplies of natural gas. We stand ready to work with Congress on this extremely important legislation that is critical to U.S. farmers, agribusiness and other U.S. energy consumers.
